A WORTHY RECORD

An interesting brochure has been issued by the Standard Oil Company of California, titled "A Great Record of Industrial Peace, 1879-1935"; and the facts are irrefutable that the title is not a misnomer.

It shows that, with two unimportant exceptions, no group of Standard Oil employees ever struck for higher wages, or better working conditions or for any cause originating within the company. Truly a great and admirable record.

WORTHY OF EMULATION

The company's labor record sets an example well worthy of emulation by other industrial concerns. Years ago it was the first to adopt the 8-hour day in the oil fields with no decrease in pay.

It was among the first to provide pensions, sickness benefits, accident benefits and life insurance.

Its wage scales have generally been as high or higher than prevailing scales.

In 1917 the company adopted the practice of granting two weeks' vacation, with pay, to the common laborer after one year of service—an innovation in American industry.

It has enabled its employees to become stockholders.

It has always maintained the highest standard of working conditions and given noteworthy attention to the welfare of its employees.

In 1934 the total cost of the various employee benefits—per

DALLAS, Tex., June 21—UP—In a stormy session quieted once by the appearance of the sheriff of Dallas county, the Young Democratic Club tonight defeated a resolution seeking to oust Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, as vice-president of the State organization.

The club adopted, instead, a resolution endorsing the President.

The meeting developed several times into a near riot. Several challenges to "meet you outside and settle it" were heard, but no blows were struck.

The meeting revived smoldering animosities aroused in the club by the impromptu debate staged on the floor of the State convention in Amarillo two weeks ago between Governor James V. Allred and Elliott Roosevelt.

Girl Released
In Fall Death
At S. F. Hotel

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21—UP—Satisfied the death of Harold Fuller, 48-year-old insurance man, was accidental, police today released Mildred McLean, 22, night club entertainer, after questioning.

Fuller was said by a hotel clerk to have appeared intoxicated, fell from an upper story through a stair well to the lobby.

It could not be determined whether he plunged from the fourth, fifth or sixth floor. His shoes, a package of cigarettes and his vest were found on successive landings.

Fuller, after a party with a friend introduced as "George," offered to take Miss McLean, whom he had known, to her hotel. Fuller left her in the lobby, she said, then apparently returned later and registered.

Clerk Albert Wunderlich said he took Fuller to his room, heard him wandering about shortly afterward. A moment later the body came hurtling through to the lobby.

Two Killed In Fall From Dam

BOULDER CITY, Nev., June 21—Two men were killed today while working on Boulder Dam, when they fell 250 feet off a scaffolding of the intake tower on the Nevada side of the Colorado river.

The men, John W. Matson of Boulder City and Harold Koff of Las Vegas, were knocked off their perch, falling 250 feet to the floor of the tower.

GAS FUMES BRING DEATH TO W. LEWIS

Missing a week, the body of William A. Lewis, about 45 of Tormey, was found dead in his wife's car which was parked in an empty barn on the old Ripley ranch near Pinole early last evening.

Death, coroner's deputies said, was due to carbon monoxide gas fumes which Lewis inhaled from the exhaust of his motor through a rubber pipe attached to the exhaust pipe of the sedan.

BODY FOUND

The body was found by power plant workers who called Constable Eugene Shea at Pinole. The coroner's office here was notified and the body was brought to the Wilson & Kratzer chapel.

Authorities are attempting to get in touch with Mrs. Ruth Lewis, the widow, who left last evening for southern California to search for her husband whom she believed might have been visiting relatives there. An attempt was made to reach her on the train by telegram.

WALEY GIVEN 45 YEARS

A. ROBINSON IS KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Developments in the "mechanical ghost" sensation yesterday came rapidly and calamitically. It was statement day for everybody.

The Mexican Convent General Alejandro Lubert officially denied that either he or his representatives had said that Alejo Torres, in the county jail at Martinez under a charge of murder, had said he had no complaint to make regarding his treatment at the hands of sheriff's deputies.

District Attorney Francis P. Henley declared that he would not use the confession of Torres, allegedly obtained through the use of the "robot ghost," in the prosecution of the latter.

Sheriff John A. Miller issued a statement in connection with the highly mixed up situation, declaring himself and his deputies have "dedicated their lives to humane treatment to all."

Thomas M. Carlson, attorney for Torres, also had something to say, and not in a very complimentary vein, regarding the affair.

SENT TO INVESTIGATE

The Mexican convent general sent two of his men, A. Cante and R. Erbado, secretary and investigator to Martinez yesterday to talk with Torres concerning the alleged attempt to get him out of third degree confinement to extract a confession from the latter.

MADE NO STATEMENT

After their return to San Francisco Convent General Lubert said that neither himself nor the convent general had made any statement, and anything said or published to the contrary was not true.

The two men were sent there, he said, at no orders to the convent, but to make a report to me. It is ridiculous, to even suppose that they would have talked to anyone about the case."

Asked if he intended to lodge a complaint with the county attorney, he said it was impossible to do until he had made a study of CANON CITY, Colo., June 21—UP—Leonard Belongia, 25, the Minnesota farm boy who wanted to die ahead of time was executed today in Colorado's lethal gas chamber.

Smiling and unafraid, Belongia, of San Pablo, will be buried this afternoon at the Weyerhaeuser death house to the gas chamber, said Kratzer chapel at 1:30 o'clock. Cremation will be at Berkley.

Fingerprints and photographs of Arnold were sent to Federal officials at Denver.

CONVICTED MAN PLEADS FOR WOMAN

TACOMA, Wash., June 21—UP—Harmon Metz Waley, the gawky, six-foot Aberdeen boy who "couldn't get along with the police," was sentenced to serve 45 years in prison in Federal Court today for his part in the kidnaping and ransoming of George Hunt Weyerhaeuser, 9 year old son of the millionaire Weyerhaeuser family.

Asking nothing for himself, Waley faced Judge E. E. Cushman and pleaded for his young wife, Margaret, the simple Salt Lake City girl, who defied her parents and married an ex-convict.

REFUSED PLEA

Judge Cushman refused a plea of guilty by Mrs. Waley after her attorney, Steve O'Brien said she had no actual part in the kidnaping and had even no knowledge of it until after it had been committed.

"I cannot take a plea of guilty on either count if the defendant did not know about the crime," Judge Cushman re-echoed. He directed O'Brien to be prepared to enter another plea for Mrs. Waley at 10 A. M. Saturday.

45 YEARS

Waley was sentenced to serve 45 years on the first of three indictments, charging the Waleys and William Mahan, full a fugitive, with violating the Lindbergh kidnaping law and conspiracy to kidnap. On the second count, charging sending of an extortion letter through the mails, Waley was sentenced to serve two years.

Students Named On Honor Rolls At Junior High

As a result of outstanding citizenship, scholarship and service, the following students of the Longfellow junior high school were named on the honor roll at yesterday's closing session of school:

Genny Himes, Laverne Oliver, Kenneth Holland, Leicester Lipp, Marjorie Matrich, Jean Janet Anderson, Alma Mae Campbell, Anna Cisi, Carolyn Dunlap, Fumiko Novita, Ruby Sakal, Magdaline Schifterle, Alfred Berg, Elizabeth Fisher, Richard Hunn, Maxine Johnson, Doris Lewis, Marjorie Medlicott, Genevieve Messinger, Ruby Adachi, Marie Kerber, Beatrice Moorhead, Margie Ruzich, Madeline Roush, Jean Amarel, Margaret Brown, Arlene Coe, Marjorie Dunster, Esley Anne Evans, Eleanor Gray, Miriam Gresham, Margaret Grosnell, Peggy McNeil, Rose Michaels, Dolly Miyamoto, Betty Soderblom, Mildred Walker and Charles Peterson.

There was much talk about the political effect of the President's recommendations. Among commenters was Representative Snell of New York, House Republican leader, who had this to say:

"That share the wealth suggestion was purely a political move. If it weren't the President surely he would pass word around that he wanted something done now."

Man Detained

BERKELEY MEET

Berkeley, June 21.—UP—George Owens, Ohio State's track star, qualified in four events in today's trials in the first day of the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association track and field meet in Edwards stadium of University of California.

The Ohio State sophomore won first place in every event in which he competed and has a record of more than three and possibly four trials to his credit.

Owens ran the 100 yards in 9.7 seconds,

the 220 in 21.2 seconds,

the 220 yard low hurdles in 2.6

seconds and the broad jump with a leap of 26 feet 1 1/8 inches, exceeding the NCAA record for the event.

The Negro star didn't seem to be exerting himself as he led some of the nation's best dashes and hurdles across the tape in the trial heats. He took only two leaps in the broad jump to conserve his strength for the final.

Then thousand fans cheered the Ohio State star as he succeeded in the hardest assignment of any for the 150 performers who took part in the afternoon's trials.

Shot put contestants were the first to finish their trials. George Theofanidis of Washington State qualified with a heave of 60 feet 6 inches.

Johnny McCarthy, University of Southern California, member of the team favored to win the championship if Owen falters in his individual bid for the title, defeated Glenn Hardin, Louis and State, defending champion, in the last heat of the 100 yard trials.

McCarthy's time was 45.2, relatively slow. Hardin finished second.

Charles Gengloff, Pitt, shared the meet record in the javelin throw with a toss of 221 1/2.

Sammy Allen, Oklahoma Baptist, ran the fastest time of the 220 yard hurdles trials in winning the first heat in 14.3 seconds.

Wally Ward, giant Michigan negus, was the first of the major stars to fail to qualify, running in a special heat for third and fourth place men in the last hurdles. Ward lost his stride and crashed into a hurdle. He was not injured. Caldeonever won the special heat in 14.5 seconds.

FEAR TROUBLE BETWEEN CHINA NAVAL VESSELS

HONG KONG, Saturday, June 22.—UP—Sailors of the British warships D. G. Fowler and Kelvin were suddenly recalled from shore-leave today as result of activities of the Chinese Navy in the vicinity of the British Crown colony.

The protracted naval conflict in which after two rebel Chinese warships, the Hai-Chi and Hai-Shen, and a Nanking Government cruiser, the Ninghai.

The rebels denied these rumors, their officers stoutly asserting neither they nor the Ninghai fired a shot.

Their explanation was that when 12 miles out from Hong Kong they sighted the Ninghai. The Ninghai cruiser sent a wireless message from the vice-minister of the Navy, who was on board, instructing the rebel cruisers to return to Hong Kong and await orders.

This conflicts with the Wagnan Lighthorn keeper's story, which said the man distinctly heard the firing.

All three Chinese warships returned to Hong Kong, and a British destroyer had to chase the rebels, while the Ninghai followed them into the harbor and kept a close watch on their moves.

The United Press correspondent visited the rebel cruisers. He was not allowed on board, but there was no sign of any damage. A sailor on watch said officers from both ships were in conference on the Ninghai.

Chow Hsin-Sun, a Nanking naval adviser, supported the rebel story, also emphatically denying the Ninghai had fired on the former Cantonese craft.

ONE KILLED, MANY HURT IN RIOTING

EUREKA, June 21.—UP—Police, aided by specially deputized forces, tonight pushed round up of agitators and number strike pickets, blazed by sudden riot which left one man dead, nine injured, and 114 under arrest today.

Specials, deputized, patrolled the streets. Special watch was kept over the huge timber hills surrounding the city.

ONE KILLED

G. W. Kettner, a striker from picket line, thrown around by henchmen of Eureka Lumber, outside of the city, was shot to death during the riot.

More than 260 strikers battled with less than a score of police in the dead rain. Officers first resorted to clubs in an effort to subdue the demonstrators, then turned to tear gas and finally discharged several volleys from revolver and riot guns.

NEAR DEATH

Harold Edlund and Paul Lam, lumberjacks, were reported near death from gunshot wounds. Hospital treatment was given Ole Nelson, Eugene Miller, John Smith, L. Kinnane, Police Chief George Mcleod, Police Captain Tomation, Police Officer William French, and Patrolman Peter Carney and Luther were suffering bullet wounds. The others were either shot, hit by flying missiles, or severely beaten. Chief of Police, Elmer, was among the most seriously hurt.

MANY INJURED

Scores suffered minor bruises and injuries in the melee.

Strikers of the red were deputized to jail cells as quickly as police could close with the rioters. The round continued for hours after the disturbance as authorities finally pushed a drive to put an end to all "undesirables."

J. B. Wadlow, president of the Timber and Sawmill Workers Union No. 2562, an affiliate of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, was among a large group of union leaders jailed.

REDS HELD

Many of those held allegedly were Communists and radical labor agitators.

Police set fire to ranch-huckle houses and dwellings in the "jungles" outside Eureka late in the afternoon, driving some 200 residents of the section out.

Vandenberg read to the Senate chamber, sweeping forward in a measure from some of his supporters to transport to Alaska, commanding or conditions and charging the government had not given up its responsibility or care of them.

The letter asserted that construction on Alaska was now delayed and that the Alaska project was not being made to work, even though the construction crews were being forced to work on the roads and railroads.

'RECKLESS,' AN EXCITING FILM AT FOX SUNDAY

HOLLYWOOD, June 21—UP—A suggestion to client-less lawyers and starving artists—

Why not be a movie star?

A check of the contract lists at one of Hollywood's major studios reveals that nearly half their leading stars were plucked from ranks of either legal counsellors or brush-holders.

Bing Crosby of the golden voice, for example, Bing was earning his way through Gonzaga College, learning to be a lawyer, by singing with a dance orchestra, when he found his voice offered more money in song than in reciting Blackstone.

Gail Patrick planned to be one of those still rare woman barristers and was attending Howard College in Alabama when she entered a Hollywood "panther woman" contest for a lark, and caught a director's eye.

For thirty years, Samuel S. Hinds, the Harry Bridges group in the local International Longshoremen's association rolled up its sleeves today to battle any possible disciplinary action from international headquarters against waterfront militancy here.

Fred Frater, secretary-treasurer of the local, denied removal of Bridges, president of the San Francisco unit and leader of the left-wing faction, had been ordered removed.

Reports had been Joseph Ryan, international president, wanted, Bridges removed on threat of revocation of the local's charter.

"We haven't received word from Joseph Ryan or anyone else," Frater said. "Moreover, it would take more than an order from Ryan to revoke our charter."

Frater said employers had countered out San Francisco in attempting to disrupt the union and that this was the source of recurring trouble.

"We only regret," he said, "that some of our own members can be used in an attempt to enforce the employers' program on the men, which means the loss of all gains made in the 1934 strike and going back to the unbearable economic conditions under which the longshoremen suffered for 14 years on the Pacific coast."

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND TRADE MARK DOWNTOWN

WASHINGTON, June 21—Chief for "Cotton Lad," Smith of South Carolina, when he put into the congressional record a statement, Senator John Edwards of the same state, read a clause from the same, read by Jim Byrnes.

From Philadelphia, his Union League to Pittsburgh's Duquesne Club, and in the searched rendezvous of success along New York's Fifth Avenue, every place where industrial leaders gather, you will hear this question earnestly discussed.

And the name most frequently whispered among them is that of Lew Douglas, former Director of the Budget.

Son of a wealthy Arizona copper family, former close adviser to Roosevelt, bitter critic of New Deal policies, Lew is considered the ideal choice by many of those who would stop Roosevelt. They figure that a conservative Democrat has a better chance to split the Democratic Party, carry the Solid South as well as Republicans of the North and West—than any old-label Republican.

This may not be the view among Republican Grass-Rooters of the Midwest, but it is the present philosophy of conservative politicians of the East.

Lew Douglas, they whisper, will be the St. George to rescue them from the New Deal dragon.

FAST RETRIEVE

Representative O. H. Cross had to do some fast retrieving the other day.

A practical joker in his Texas district sent word that a constituent had a new baby. Cross directed his secretary to dispatch a letter of congratulations and a copy of the Children's Bureau's famous booklet "Infant Care."

A few days later Cross received a letter from the constituent's 9-year-old daughter reading: "We haven't a new baby. You made a mistake."

The Texan moved fast. He personally wrote a letter of apology to the young correspondent.

"And just to show you that we Congressmen have your interest at heart," he added, "I am sending you something which may in part make up for the lack of a baby brother or sister."

The "something" was a life-sized doll.

"CAREFUL SURVEY"

The story of a three hundred million dollar mistake will be told for the first time when Secretary Ickes' new book comes out late this month. The book is an account of the two years of PWA, entitled "Back to Work."

The mistake involved the original appropriation for Public Works made just after Roosevelt entered office in 1933.

On a warm May day, Senator Wagner of New York was hastily inspecting a final copy of the PWA bill. It had been drafted by Simon H. Rikind, then Wagner's secretary. The bill called for an appropriation of three billion dollars.

Wagner, calling to Rikind thru the noise of other conversation, said:

"Does this three billion figure include the three hundred million for New York?"

In reply, Rikind said, "I put it in."

But in the confusion Wagner thought he said, "Put it in."

So he did. He crossed out the $3,000,000,000 and wrote instead $3,300,000,000.

Thus when the President sent his PWA message to Congress on May 17, he said:

"A careful survey convinces me that approximately 3,300,000,000 can be invested in useful and necessary public construction."

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, June 21—The Juilliard Foundation has followed up Edward Johnson's appointment as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company by naming an advisory committee to help him along.

Several weeks ago I pointed out that Johnson, who received the managerial post after the sudden death of Herbert Witherspoon, was not so closely allied with the Juilliard faction as his predecessor, and I suggested that there would be interesting developments in this regard before the new season was well under way. The appointment of the new board is the first of these.

The new committee, called an "operatic management committee," is headed by John Erskine, who is president of the Juilliard School. In addition, there are Cornelius Baker and Lucinda Boni, representing the Opera group; and Allen Wardwell, who is both a Metropolitan director and a trustee of the Juilliard School. Interestingly, they will "keep in close touch with Edward Johnson," and will aid in an advisory capacity in matters of managerial importance.

Mr. Johnson will probably have more assistance than he needs.

INNOCENT. Taxi drivers with radios have recently devised a curious little cheating stunt to run up the fare on their meters. When a passenger boards the cab, the driver turns the radio on and heads for the nearest avenue with an "L" structure. It seems that the rumbling trains interfere with reception, and on such streets the radio gives out horrible spluttering and crackling sounds as the cab rolls along.

Most taxi drivers never think of asking the driver to shut the thing off. They endure the ear-splitting racket almost until the breaking point, and then the driver turns off.

Colitis Has Many Varieties—Several Forms Are More Prevalent With Women Than Men

IT ISN'T possible to answer the many questions concerning colitis; the variety is too numerous. The mucous type, the spastic membranous, and other kinds and varieties are not taken up separately. One hesitates to write about the condition at all, because there are so many forms, mucous, membranous, etc., etc.

It would be best to describe them all, and then someone would write in and say they had a condition that had not been mentioned. A coat is primarily an inflammation of the intestine, but as a result of long standing, certain local causes, it may extend to the deeper tissues and develop extensive ulcers.

Anterior colitis is an attack of acute diarrhea with pain and cramps, due to some irritating food or drink with bacterial infection, which may cause a fever. The treatment of that is an initial large dose of castor oil, rest in bed, and fasting, avoiding all food except water, till the attack has passed.

Morphine for pain and sedatives for cramps with the local use of heat may be necessary. Chronic colitis is a very common condition. Constipation is the prominent symptom, which may alternate with diarrhea. The color is tender and can be felt as a rope-like ridge under the skin, particularly that part from the ribs on the left side, down into the pelvis.

THE PERSON who has suffered from it for some time is poorly nourished and is usually highly nervous, complaining of pain over various parts of the body. Now here, now there. Headache, backache, general weakness, palpitation of the heart are prevalent with exhaustion. The appetite is poor, the abdomen hard and distended with great distress. The walls of the colon are inflamed and are infected by pathological bacteria, which cause toxæmia of the blood stream. This may result in arthritis, neuralgia, neuritis, headaches, and other ills.

Mucous and membranous colitis are simply different forms of chronic colitis. It is much more common in women than in men, as is seen with the slender, flat, sagging abdomen, while spastic constipation is always present. The symptoms consist of attacks of spasmodic pain following in hours by the passage of large amounts of mucus. Sometimes severe hemorrhage occurs. The abdomen is distended and extremely tender. There may be some fever, followed by a few days of diarrhea. Between attacks the patient suffers from indigestion, gaseous distension and constipation. General nervousness is a prominent symptom. Soon the cramps and colic return, each time leaving the patient more miserable and depressed.

THE treatment, of course, must vary with different conditions. But, before anything can be accomplished the general system must be built up. It is a deficiency disease to a great extent, and this must be overcome. All digestive disturbances should be corrected. Hydrochloric acid, pepsin, belladonna and nux vomica may be indicated.

The patient is usually anemic, and large doses of iron should be given from ammonium citrate, sixty to ninety grains a day, combined with grain feeding, may increase the diarrhea at first, but will soon overcome it.

There is usually a deficiency in vitamins A and B. Vitamin A can be obtained from cod liver oil, butter, milk, cheese. Vitamin B can be obtained in foods from the intercrops of cereals, peas, beans, brewers' yeast, milk, eggs and meats. Large amounts of brewers' yeast powder are needed, as much as one to three teaspoonsful a day.

Starches and sugars should be avoided. Iced foods and drinks must not be taken. Food should be eaten often and in small amounts. Good nourishing food is essential. Fish, eggs, milk, chicken, green vegetables, in small amounts, orange, and tomato juice, stewed fruits, and pulp of raw apples and banana.

This diet will be continued tomorrow.

Guide to Charm

ROUGE ACCENTS AID IN-BETWEEN KIND OF BEAUTY

By JACQUELINE HUNT

ACCENT your cheeks with rouge, arrange your hair so that it is soft and kind to your face, and give your lips definite lines, and you will find that the most "in-between" colorless type of girl becomes an entirely different person.

Choose your cosmetics with care if you class yourself as an "in-between." If there is a suggestion of gold or silver in your hair you could sometimes emphasize it with a henna rinse or lemon juice. Try the rouges and lipsticks that are softly orange-red in tone, and emphasize our eyelashes and brows with brown mascara. And, for evening or parties, use just the vaguest suggestion of blue or green eye shadow.

No matter how colorless and mousey you are you should darken your lashes and eyebrows.

You will find that the added accent will permit you to wear a light or medium color on your lips and cheeks. If your skin is quite pale or in a grayish tone then you may have more success with a light or medium clear rouge and lip color.

Work constantly to keep your skin clear and the texture fine and velvety, and its monotony of color will not destroy your beauty. Rather it will add to it, by highlighting your lips and eyes.

Spend more time searching for the right shade of powder. If your skin needs warmth, try some of the creamy pink or rose beige shades of powder. If these seem a bit too yellow for you, try a natural, maureque, or one of the new so-called russet shades that are cool and flattering.

Occasionally, we find the drab, in-between type of girl with an olive skin that nearly matches her hair and eyes. This is a difficult type to make up. If the skin is a clear, true olive, then a very light rachet powder can sometimes be used. If this isn't satisfactory, try mixing a small amount of mica powder with some ochre, varying the proportions until you find something that is satisfactory.

Rouge should be used rather sparingly and it should be somewhat dull in tone. Use a darker red rouge for your lips, but be sure that there are no purples or harsh undertones.

The "in-between" with brown eyes and a hint of gold in her skin and hair is the most fortunate of the lot. Her make-up can be more vivid. Her powder a warm peachy beige shade and rouge and lipstick orange-red or flame. She can use a darker brown for brows and lashes and orange or blue-green eye shadow.

All in-betweens should use a more subtle perfume, a blend or bouquet that is light and sweet and elusive.

Major Edwin H. Armstrong, Radio Pioneer, Has New Invention to Eliminate Static

THIS is station — crackle, crackle, buzz — oh, shut the blamed thing off!

How many times we have heard sentiments about the radio, which has been called both man's friend and curse. Now, if everything comes out all right, static will be nothing but an old fashioned word, and future generations may doze to the dulcet strains of Strauss with many a crackle to bother their sissies ear drums.

This great feat is being attempted by Major Edwin H. Armstrong, who, along with Lee DeForest, is perhaps the most distinguished of the radio pioneers.

Major Armstrong has announced an invention which is revolutionary in theory, with which he hopes to end the snarls and boulders of static. This may sound too good to be true, but consider that the Major is credited with the invention of the superheterodyne and the regenerative circuit, and you can see the chances are good.

He has always been inclined toward electricity. In his former

THIS is such a jolly month that we can think of all kinds of occasions when a plain dinner isn't enough. We want to invite as many guests as we can possibly take care of and feed them extra good food, with all of the frills that make eating so much fun. There are mothers to be entertained, graduating classes of boys and girls, church groups and club friends.

Whether the banquet is for fun or profit you must consider cost. Fortunately, the main courses needn't be expensive. The cheapest dishes are also easiest to prepare and practically fail-proof.

Baked ham, ham a la king, chicken croquettes, and meat loaf are excellent suggestions. The meat loaf is a good idea and needs no last minute fussing over. They can stand for fifteen minutes to half an hour if necessary without losing their goodness.

As much as possible of the cooking should be done the day before the banquet. Cakes or pie shells or meringues can be made, sauces and salad dressings prepared, sausages filled, lettuce cleaned and put into a tight-covered can or lettuce bag to crisp and sometimes the vegetable course can be partly prepared.

The morning of the banquet, the puréed vegetables, vegetables set to boil, the ingredients for cocktails, appetizers, salads and desserts. Prepare the trifles too, not buttered salads and rosettes of peaches and nectarines, but fluff, that are colorful and rankly good to eat.

If the meal starts with a fruit salad, use fruit of contrasting colors and flavors. Little balls of honeydew melon or avocado add an interesting touch of green to your fruit cocktails while a dab of currant jelly or thinly sliced marmalade, cherry or stuffed olive arranged flower-fashion in the center of each cocktail makes the fruit more delicious.

Soup deserves dressing up too.

Make a good, clear, well-flavored beef or veal broth the day before, cool it, strain it, then pour into the soup plates or bouillon cups. Immediately before serving add two or three oysters topped with whipped cream to each bowl.

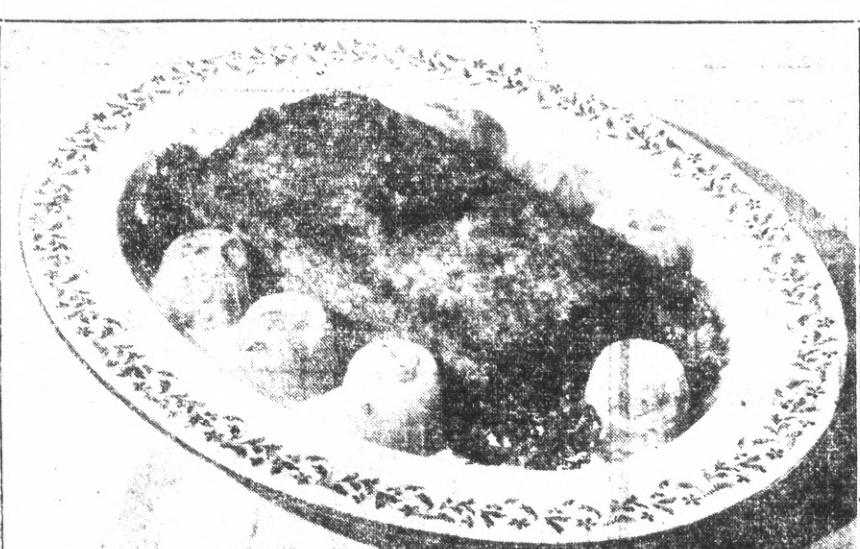

Dash with paprika. Cream soups become more attractive and body with long strands of yellow cheese.

The main course should be arranged on individual plates. Have your meat, potatoes, vegetable and garnishes arranged as attractively as possible. Buttery mashed potatoes molded in small balls and filled with chicken or ham a la king or seafood is surprising and pretty. On the same plate might go the vegetable, jelly and a hot buttered roll or biscuit. Fudishes and watercress make appropriate garnishes.

Two-in-one dishes are worth considering. A chicken pie topped with small biscuits and rich with gravy and tiny onions and potato balls is a good suggestion for the party that is not too large. All that you will need is an additional green vegetable such as peas or asparagus tips. Macaroni and cysteins is another popular and inexpensive main dish.

TWO FAMILY FAVORITES

Ham Loaf: 1/2 cup quick-cooking tapioca, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon melted onion, 1 pound lean ham, 1/2 pound lean pork, ground, 2 cups milk. Combine ingredients in order given. Bake in loaf pan in oven at 350 degrees F. 15 minutes; then decrease heat to moderate (330 degrees F.) and bake 45 minutes longer, or until done. Rub mixing bowl with garlic before mixing.

Cabbage and Horseradish Relish: 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin, 1 pint warm milk, 1/4 cup minced green pepper. Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add vinegar, horseradish, and salt. When slightly thickened, fold in cabbage and green pepper. Turn into individual molds, filling them 2/3 full. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve as relish with ham loaf. Makes 12 half-molds.

New York — Prints appeal to women once warm weather comes. They have a cool look and that's a great deal in favor of any fabric at this season.

There are many reasons why a printed crepe should be cooler than a plain one, but so long as it looks cooler prints are chosen.

Later on we shall wear printed linens and cottons. There is also every indication that the tried and true favorite, shantung, will be much in use again.

Now that we shall wear printed jackets and blouses, there seems to be a preference for the printed jacket with the plain dress instead of the other and more usual way around. Many hats are being fashioned wholly or in part of printed silk, taffetas and glazed chintz.

Another foot note to bear in mind is that there is a rumor that clocked hosiery will become as popular here as it always has been in Paris. And clocking is not the only thing that has been happening to stockings. There are ever so many more colors worn than formerly. To begin with, there are the very sheer chiffon black and navy, navy being especially good in combination with chintz accessories. There are also the very light shades, some definitely yellow, and voted smart for summer. An orange shade is expected to go with Summer complexion.

Dwelling on accessories, as I seem to be, may I remind you that it is considered good style to wear a scarf over one's head when stepping out evenings?

Such a scarf when attached to the dress, as many are, is called an "aérien" and is as you have probably seen in Eastern.

Stashed today we offer an advance view of beach costumes for the summer.

the sentence to run concurrently. The third indictment returned by the grand jury, charging Mrs. Waley with sending an extortion letter—the contact letter—through the mails was dismissed.

Standing side by side with their attorney Mr. and Mrs. Waley both entered hushed pleas of guilty when the charges were read.

MERCY PLEA

O'Brien immediately launched into a plea for mercy on behalf of Mrs. Waley. He had been retained by her parents in Utah to represent her, but not Waley, whom they blamed for the girl's downfall.

After Judge Cushman had rejected Margaret's plea of guilty and directed her case be set over, he turned to Waley.

"Have you anything to say for yourself?" the court asked.

DEFENDS WIFE

"I have nothing to say as far as I am concerned," Waley answered. "All I have to say, your honor, is in behalf of my wife."

"She did not know a thing about the kid. She didn't even know we had the kid until the Sunday following the kidnapping; when the boy let out a big yell in the car trunk and kept asking to get out."

"When she rented the house in Spokane, she didn't know the boy would be kept there."

"And furthermore, I never told her about the ransom money and nobody else did."

ADMITS ARREST

It was when Mrs. Waley spent one of the ransom bills in a five-and-ten cent store in Salt Lake City, that police arrested her and enabled the "G men" to solve the latest great kidnapping in the country.

Waley paused, then indicated he had finished. He fidged and turned his head with the red-dyed hair, this way and that.

"Have you ever been convicted of a crime?" Judge Cushman asked.

"Yes," Waley answered. "I was sent up for burglary in Idaho, and I guess I have been convicted a few other times."

LONG RECORD

Assistant United States Attorney Owen Hughes enlightened the court explicitly on that score by reading Waley's police and prison record since the time he "got in trouble" when he was 15 and was sent to the Washington State reformatory school.

E. J. Connell, chief of the Department of Justice agents on the Weyerhaeuser case, testified as to the facts of the kidnapping as confessed by the Waleys and as learned by the "G men."

Above is a general view of the conference showing many international delegates, as M. Gresswell, the new president took charge at the opening session.

Ghost Confession In Murder Case May Not Be Employed At Trial

nited by Torres, eliminated a group of dastardly, brutal arsonists in our county.

"Since assuming office, my men have constantly been given direct orders to render the district attorney every possible assistance in the gathering of evidence."

The present sensational situation was brought about through the alleged use of a bond poster that a squeaky voice in the Mexican tongue at intervals sounded through Torres' cell saying:

"I am the ghost of Area Captain. You killed me, you killed me."

Further pressure is alleged to have been exerted on Torres by keeping a brilliant floodlight burning in his cell for 18 hours, thus preventing him getting any rest or sleep.

Dewey Camp To Observe Manila Day August 11th

Important veteran legislative matters were discussed last evening when the Admiral Dewey Camp of United Spanish War Veterans convened at the Memorial hall, Jack Bodin presided.

Plans were disclosed for Manila day, which will be observed an August 11. A program is being arranged for that occasion.

After the meeting the group joined the Auxiliary at the banquet rooms. Romeo Benton member of the Camp, assisted the Auxiliary in serving the delicious dinner.

BOYS PLAYING DETECTIVE

Attorney Tom Carlson in an interview said:

"Instead of being a brilliant peace of work, this looks like a lot of little boys playing detective and playing with matches without knowing what matches sometimes burn."

While not amplifying his remarks, he is presumed to have referred to the state law prohibiting the use of such tactics, as are claimed to have been involved in Torres' case, and providing upon conviction for a fine ranging up to $2,000.

NO INHUMANITY ALLOWED

"Let me say that the people of this county know that neither the undersheriff, nor myself would permit our men to do any inhuman act. Our lives have been dedicated to humane treatment to all," said Sheriff Miller in a statement given to the press yesterday.

When the season of unemployment had its blighting hand on the nation, the company was among the first to institute the share-the-work plan. Thus the job of 2,000 workers, who otherwise would have been released and more or less scattered, were saved.

HOME INSTITUTION

The diffusion of this information is peculiarly appropriate in this community, which, in a large measure owes its commercial prosperity to this institution. It is the pioneer firm of any magnitude, and through the years has always been a valuable asset, not alone for the money it yielded through taxation no mean factor in itself, but the high class of men who have had charge of its affairs, and who have invariably been important and valuable additions to our community life.

Richmond, with the exception of a few disgruntled individuals with tainted grievances, has no complaint against the Standard Oil Company and is proud to have it here. It has added to our material greatness and contributed to our progress. Our only regret is that more companies of like magnitude and conducted on such a high, humanitarian plane, do not locate here.

Chamber Sees Better Times For Ranchers

DEL MONTE, June 21. (UP) The general level of agricultural and industrial activity in California is above earlier months and far ahead of last year, it was reported to directors of the State Chamber of Commerce here today.

Farm prices are up, with production outlook bright for most field crops reported on. Indexes on meat animals also are up.

San Francisco led the building industry with 117% percent increase for the first five months in 1935 over the same period in the year previous.

The Pan American Airways four-motor plane rose easily, roaring straight out on its 2,000-mile course to its home base.

The Clipper, after returning to Alameda, will be held in readiness for a trip which may take it as far as Manila within the next six weeks.
